Boys Golf

Tiger Woods Look Out, Here Come the Tech Golfers!

There are no cheerleaders, no large crowd cheering you on. It's just you and your opponent. This sport of internal courage, and skill is a sport that students can continue throughout their life. Breathe deeply, make sure you have a tight grip, check your stance, draw back, and swing with all of your might. Keep your eye on the ball, and call FORE!

Last year's golf team started out with a new coach. Dave Horton found senior, and captain Amish Patel to be a "great help." With a new coach and a large freshman population, the .500 mark at the end of the season was a great accomplishment. Coach Horton was proud of his players.

"The players showed good sportsmanship, remembering that it is just as important to have fun as it is to win." GO TITANS!

Right: Tech golfers watch with disappointment as their competition sinks the ball into the hole.

Softball!

Tech Building on a Lady Titan Tradition

The Lady Titan Softball team surged forward to a season full of wins and plenty of success. Traditions of excellence and skill catapulted the team through this season. The coaches Mr. Woodling and Mr. Elson were committed to a winning season. Strong senior leadership helped the team with enthusiasm and hustle. Returning players, along with the rest of the team, showed keen fielding, accurate striking, and good all-around play. They had more good hits than Sugar Ray Leonard.

The team had a winning season finishing at 12-7. They smashed a multitude of teams including every IPS school, Park Tudor, Brebeuf, and Baptist. In the city tournament they crushed Arlington with a titanic seventeen to zero, but were beaten in the next game by a powerful Cathedral team.

Above: Shannon Moore takes long strides to make it to first safely. The girls will certainly continue their winning Lady Titan tradition.

Girls Track

Team runs away with IPSAC and City

Crouched in preparation, all is quiet awaiting the signal to blast off. The soft rhythmic breathing is the loudest noise on the runners' battlefield. The nemesis of each runner is herself, the one opponent that she can never satisfy. Muscles tense in preparation to leap forth from the starting line like a slug from a tactical assault rifle, speeding towards the goal that is already in its sights. Such was the beginning of all the mighty wins of this fine running team.

Like a general displaying his war medals the team can be proud of their achievements at City and IPSAC. Reggan Stewart, like a tested soldier, can tell her story of her greatest day when she went to State for the Long Jump. Go TITANS!

Boys Track

Crouched at the starting line, focused for the gun to blast the signal into the still air, this seems to last forever in a quiet haze that is the runners last solace before the storm. The blood pumps through their ears, their hearts thump in a rythmatic dance that tenses their well-honed muscles in preparation for that call to spring into action. The screaming trumpet of the gun sends them springing forth in an exploding charge down the rubbery mat of the track. The team's cheers tear from their throats in enthusiasm for the leaping racer. This race is what each member of the team lives for.

The boys track team defeated their opponents by an average of thirty points. As they prepared for IPSAC and the City Meet, both teams had to make adjustments. The sudden absence of Manuel Kirk caused the boys to shift directions. The cold weather of the season made it unpredictable. Seated at number one for IPSAC, and no lower than second for City, the team was ready for the challenge according to its coaches.

The track team ran over all competition in IPSAC, continuing the tradition of excellence that Tech is known for. They also took the City title in an outstanding victory that lived up to the standards of the past. GO TITANS!

Girls Swing To A 7-5 Season

Under Coach Kathy Kinghorn, The Girls Tennis Team posted a 7-5 season. They finished fourth in City, first in IPSAC, and lost to Park Tudor in the sectionals at Pike. The girls had a perfect score of 30 in IPSAC. Earning gold medals were Jenny McKnight (#1 Singles), Allison Evans (#2 Singles), Jennifer Hinderliter (#3 Singles), Lori Sulek and Amanda Williams (#1 Doubles), Irina Muskvicheva and Andrea O'Neal (#2 Doubles), and Tomekya Brown (JV#1 Singles). Season wins came against Manuel, Speedway, Seccina, Heritage Christian, Arlington, Northwest, and Broadripple.

MVP for the team is Jenny McKnight. Amanda Williams was the Most Improved Player. Mama Rine Clark was voted the Best Mental Attitude Award. Co-Captains were Mama Rine Clark and Jenny McKnight.

Varsity major awards went to Tomekya Brown, Mama Rine Clark, Allison Evans, Jennifer Hinderliter, Jenny McKnight, Irina Moskvicheva, Andrea O'Neal, Lori Sulek, Amanda Williams, and Manager Nelson Nguyen. Reserve awards went to Violet Collins, Yolanda Collins, Alicia Cunningham, Shirley DeBurger, Kim Hicks, Nicole Mulholland, and Kumba Turay. Freshman awards went to Deidra Campbell, Randa Gabr, Sabrina Kraush, and Ashley McFarland. Go TITANS!

1-22 Season Plagues Mens Baseball Team

Tech's mens baseball team struggled this year despite a strong showing of senior leadership. The team's enthusiastic win over Arlington was the high point of the season. Even though the team experienced several devastating losses, they had a terrific season, and were proud of their accomplishments. Keen fielding was the strong point of the team. Harrison Nguyen earned the Best Mental Attitude Award. Andrew Sharer was bestowed with the Best Player Award by Coach Helms. Jeromy Testruth earned the Most Improved Player Award. These three lucky players, along with the rest of the team, also got the added pleasure of serving under Coach Bob Helms, who unfortunately retired at the end of the year. I'm sure I speak for everyone when I say that Coach Helms's unique coaching style will be missed. GO TITANS!

Volleyball

Better Than Good, They're Great

Volleyball n.- a game for two teams in which the object is to keep a large ball in motion, from side to side over a high net, by striking it with the hands before it touches the ground

Tech Titan Volleyball n.- a game in which the women Titans pounce upon other teams in the area

Those zany lady Titans sure know how to secure some wins. The 7-10 team was seven wins ahead of the football team. They had more good hits than George Foreman and more creative sets than George Lucas. The ladies loved their team so much that they bought their own uniforms, because of a lack of school funds. The shirts proudly displayed the names of all team members.

Football

Go TITANS!

The football soars through the air after being violently kicked to start the battle. Like pawns in chess the players are strategically moved before the next play. Everyone is motionless while the quarterback scans the field with his eagle eyes. Like a loudspeaker he calls the play. His voice is as loud as the mighty thunder rolling across the barren desert. Everyone prays that the storm will bring water to the lifeless landscape. His arm is like a mighty siege ballista. The battle is engaged.

The raw emotional power that each man possesses inspires fear in his opponents. Emotion licks across the field like a child enjoying a sucker that his mommy just brought him from the candy store. The emotion comes from dedicated football players, those that didn't quit and held their heads high throughout a trying season. Now is the time at Tech is the place for great football. Go TITANS!

Men's Tennis

Serving a dish of defeat!

Standing on the white line at the edge of oblivion before the first serve of the game is the tennis player. They ready their steadfast and trusted companion, their racket. As in the days of legend the tennis player stands, as a knight, ready for duel. This is a match of raw power, lightning reflexes, and sharp skills. Each player's eyes burn with an intensity born from the dark place where men's thoughts and desires rest in their souls. This is the abyss where dreams are born and arise to haunt men's minds. From this noncorporeal, spectral realm the tennis player draws energy that burst them into a feline-like agility. This launches them into action and with swift moves they defeat their opponents.

The tennis team had a great season this year. Although finishing the regular season (6-8), they completed eighth among many tough opponents. Though they did not break 500, they still managed to defeat all of the IPS teams in IPSAC. The Titans won this year's IPSAC championship (3-2), taking 2-singles, 1-doubles, and 2-doubles. They played Pike in the second round of sectionals and were defeated, but not without gallant effort. The varsity line up for the 1997 Tech tennis team was junior O'She Utley, senior Josh Clemens, junior Dustin McCallister, senior Daniel Faidley, Nelson Nguyen, Eric Cooper, and Chris McCallister. GO TITANS!

Cross Country

They cross mountains without breaking a sweat!

Opponents prepare beside you at the starting line for a race of endurance and speed. You fight down the fluttering butterflies in your stomach as you silently meditate upon the turbulent competition ahead. You realize that the others at the line are better than you in a sudden lowering of esteem, but deep inside a golden warrior of righteous glory struggles to come out. You begin to fall into a cold haze that will carry you through the terrain to the finish line. You run at the start setting yourself into an unstoppable pace that catapults you past all others to victory. GO TITANS!

Their only loss was at home against Roncalli, but later they beat them in City and Sectionals. They placed fourth in sectionals to move on to regionals. The team's MVP, Tumac Moore, placed fourth in the city, and ninth in sectionals, and was also city athlete of the week in Metro Indy Sports. Ramiero Vasquez was a great asset to the team and was most improved. With a record of 8-1 Tech is proud of their cross country team. GO TITANS!

The Lady Titan Cross Country ran well this year. Early on Coach Fyffe said, "(This) Team could be one of (the) school's best ever if they would run up to their potential" They did run well at IPSAC defeating Manual 58 and Northwest 73. Placing were LaTasha Lee second, Angela Dancy third, Latricia Hooten seventh, Camille Stewart eighth, Falguni Desai tenth, and Candace Stewart eleventh. The coach was proud of his runners especially Lee, Dancy, and Desai who ran their best times of the season.

Soccer

Not as bad as Football

Soccer, the sport of champions. Your opponent charges toward you juggling the ball and growling with a primal drive that makes him want to rip through you like a thin skinned tomato. To face this challenge you must draw upon your inner totem beast infusing you with the savage fury of the elements; making you more than a soccer player, a force of nature. Your breath is like hurricanes beating the coast; your legs are as steadfast as the cliffs overlooking the plains; your feet pounding the turf like an earthquake; your heart beats your blood like the magma from a pulsing volcano; you are a Tech Titan!

The Tech soccer team started practicing early this summer with only a handful of players. The teams chances at winning seemed dismal at first with the poor turn out of athletes. Early on, the team had thirteen players and needed at least five more for a competitive game. In the past Tech has had separate JV and varsity teams but this year all of the players played in the same games with a mix of veterans and new teammates. With practice beginning in August, Mark West, the coach, was still welcoming any players that wanted to tryout. With a sorry season of only two wins and two ties they were better than football. Despite this apparent depressing state Mark West said that this had been the most fun season in his five years of coaching. Go TITANS!

Women's Golf

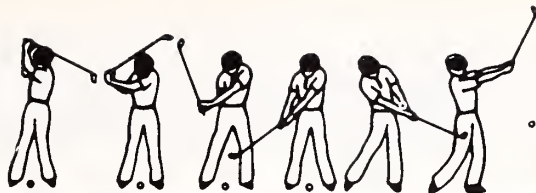

Swinging to success!

With the fairway before them, Tech golfers prepare for tournaments of skill. They carry an arsenal of clubs that allow them to strike the ball with brutal accuracy. The harsh conditions of the course are of no importance to Titan golfers. With an imposing air of superiority they subdue all competition. A burning desire to send the ball blazing through the canvas of the heavens fuels the power behind each strike. Their balls scorch the very course, kindling fires of triumph. The foes of Titan golfers leave the course defeated and lament the misfortune of meeting this force.

This was a building year for Tech lady golfers. They will miss their co-captain, seniors Andrea Heilman and Delana Ivey. GO TITANS!

Men's Swimming

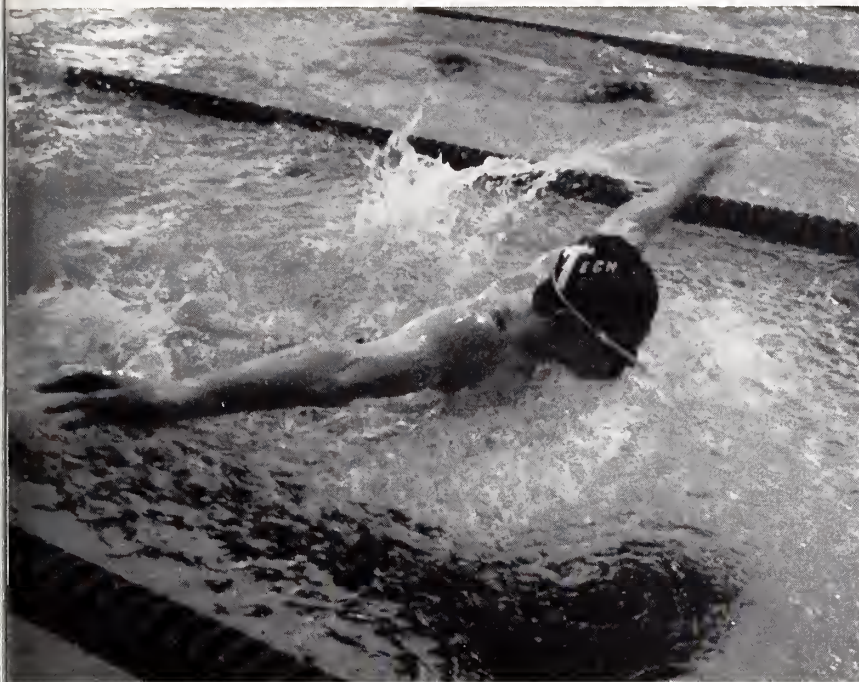

Where else can you see these hunks?

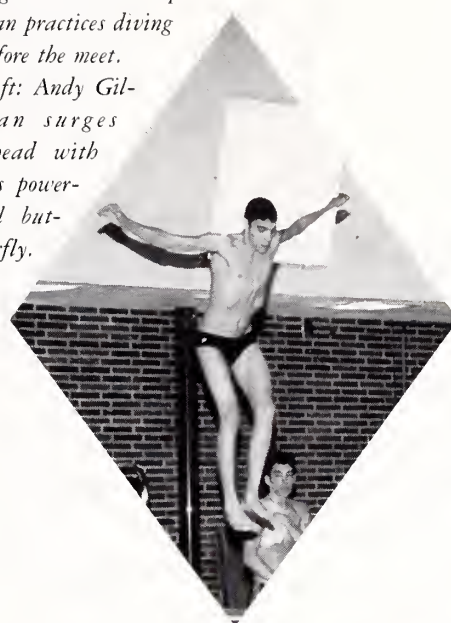

The sport of swimming is overlooked far too much. Other sports look down on swimmers; the student body mocks them. Through all this they hold their head high. Many boast of their ability to throw, shoot, or kick a ball; others of the amount of weights they can lift; but these people could not hold up to the trials a swimmer has to go through. The bulk aquired through weight training is inconsequential to a swimmer, their sinews are lean and hunger for each race. The freestyle sprinter's forward crawl is an explosive disciplined event that few can match. A breaststroker reaches ahead with each swift kick. Backstrokers plow through the water like a wedge of energy. The strength and endurance of the butterfly pulls them to the finish. The school needs to notice our swimmers as one of Tech's sports that wins. GO TITANS!

Don't Count on Forever

Lisa was sure she could count on everything... good friends, a good future, and most of all a supportive family. With a mixture a humor and painful drama, the playwright juxtaposes the most significant elements in a young person's life: home and school. Lisa is the popular editor-in-chief of the high school yearbook. Her life is torn apart by the separation of her parents. With the stress of yearbook deadlines and family problems, she somehow deals with life and grows emotionally. Her life is a struggle to control her emotions as it flies from love, to hate, to confusion, and back again. When commencement night comes, Lisa delivers a remarkable address to the senior class; she reveals what she has learned. GO TITANS!

Spring Musical

Guys & Dolls

Sky Materson is a gambler extraordinaire; this is a man that can not turn down any bet — Not even when the bet is to make the leader of the local Save-a-Soul mission fall for him. Sky uses all of his skills, taking her to Cuba for a overnight fling but when the local gangsters use the mission as a crap spot she rejects him. His only hope is to bring the gamblers to the mission to redeem himself. Meanwhile Nathan Detroit is having troubles of his own. He runs the largest roaming crap game in New York and when out of town gangsters arrive he is forced to find a place or flee town humiliated. He uses the mission getting Sky into trouble. Sky finds the gangsters playing crap in the sewers and makes an unbelievable bet to bring them to the mission in which he succeeds. In the end everyone has their significant other and live happily ever after. GO TITANS!

Below: A group of gentlemen have a discussion while Daniel Dongan, the unsung hero peeks over their shoulder trying to pick up some of that gangster lingo Steve Ragan does so well.

Tech Crew

The house lights bounce at the mighty hands of the light board technician. Audience members stir in the seats, last minute arrivals rush in under the descending darkness. Back stage, the Backdrop Engineer raises the main. Stage lights softly come up... a light explodes with a sudden darkening. Sparks rain down over the audience from the cat-walk. Crew members swing into action. Unseen by mere members of the audience and cast, these GODS flip onto the catwalk the slip through the darkness repairing all damage. The show is saved once again by the silent crew, above the oblivious audience. The curtain raises with accompanying light and none know the possible mishap deflected by the immortal presence of the technical and stage crew. GO TITANS!

Right: Kryssy meditates in the booth.

Below: Mike is baffled as the rest of the crew seem to vanish, they use secrets known only to the those of the crew to conceal themselves from the eye. This becomes useful when emergencies happen during the performance. (Notice the floating headsets)

Fellowship of Christian Athletes

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is a organization for Tech students. To attend students do not need to be athletes. They met every Friday in the afternoon. Casey Bridgeford is the president with Delana Ivey as vice president of about 25-50 members. Their aim is to provide an environment for students to discover what the Bible has to say regarding current issues, discuss relevant topics, and encourage each other in athletics. They have state wide retreats with other F.C.A. groups, along with summer sports camps. Throughout the year they have guest speakers that include many pro athletes. GO TITANS!

L.I.N.K.S. Choice

The L.I.N.K.S. choice is an after school organization for minority females interested in being mentioned with a grade point average of at least 5.9. It is meant to expose these young women to experiences designed to enhance their preparation for entry into the adult world. These experiences are cultural, educational, and vocational. They are also very involved in community service activities. Throughout the year they had a Thanksgiving and Christmas project at a nursing home. They also made many college visits. And of course they had the L.I.N.K.S. Annual Roast. GO TITANS!

Trowel Club

Mr. Horton sponsors the trowel club that meets in room 511. This club has ten members led by president Stephen Abel. To be a member students need to be a Vocational Clubs of America member with a C average in the course Masonry. They wish to learn more knowledge of the trade and better prepare for college and/apprenticeship programs. Students get practice on hands-on tasks. Each year they go to the annual Masonry Advisory Brick Laying Contest. Other special occasions are the Vocational Clubs of America Contest Regional, State, and National. GO TITANS!

Alterations

Tailoring is one of the most useful professions because everybody needs clothes. Sponsored by Dorris Raines, this club helps students gain advanced knowledge in the fields of Alterations and Tailoring. The students work on Prom Dresses, Weddings, Children's Clothing, Kindergarten Wall Decoration, Church Events, and Choir Apparel. The President of this club is Valerie Weeden. The Vice-President is Sharliegh Poindexter.

Model United Nations

For The Love Of You

Once again a spirit of happiness descended on the Ramada Hotel. The wine glasses sat asleep on the tables, waiting to be taken. Photographers set up for hours, preparing for the onslaught of upperclassmen. Maintenance crews set up tables with refreshments to soothe the energetic dancers. The disc jockey prepared his wares for the moment of their unveiling. The scene was set and tension was in the air.

The 1996-1997 Arsenal Technical High School Prom was a success. As the night raged on, the prom only got better. The King, Keon Gilbert, and his Queen, Reggan Stuart, basked in their glory. The other royalty members were Aaron Embry and Melissa Leverenz. Go TITANS!

Senior Class of 1998

Four years ago these students walk onto Tech's campus as timid freshmen. Only a few months before they had been running the hormone flushed middle school. All at once they were at the bottom of the ladder. Here they were considered immature freshmen. After struggling through the quagmire of this year they came out a bit more mature, at least to everyone else standards. For them they did not feel different. The start of their sophomore year seemed to be the same monotony of school. These students were lower classmen, but they knew the ropes and through their trials they gained some respect. As juniors they sauntered around Tech feeling in charge of everything. Finally attaining the height of seniors these students can not wait to leave this place of fond memories. GO TITANS!

Juniors Class of 1999

The diversity and range of character of the class of 1999 became truly visible during their junior year. Many began the arduous process of selecting a college as well as gruelling classes. Juniors are actively involved in leading and taking part in almost every organization on campus. All in all, members of this class are well rounded, diverse and often on the cutting edge of abnormal. Go Titans!

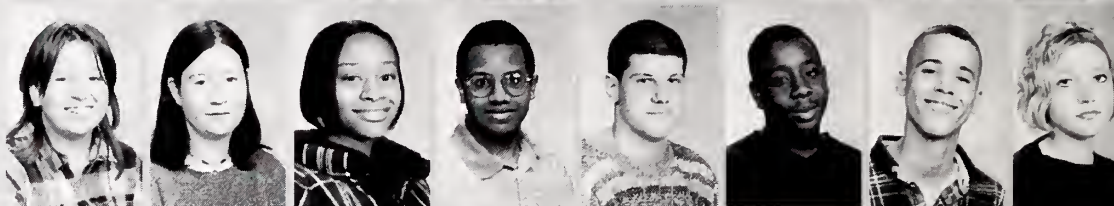

Before the start of each school year counselors and secretaries make the preparations of for another exciting September to June. Juniors must brace themselves for required classes in all of the major areas. Counselors prepare over 2,500 schedules.

Indianapolis Public School Board member Anna Parker speaks before a large crowd of Arsenal Tech supporters. Anna Parker taught for many years at Tech in the English Department.

Mrs. Parker is one of the most vocal Indianapolis Public Schools supporters. Her views on education are always in line with her strict focus on the children in the Indianapolis Public School system. Mrs. Parker is never short on words and is definitely vocal in her efforts to be at the forefront of public education.

Sophomores Class of 2000

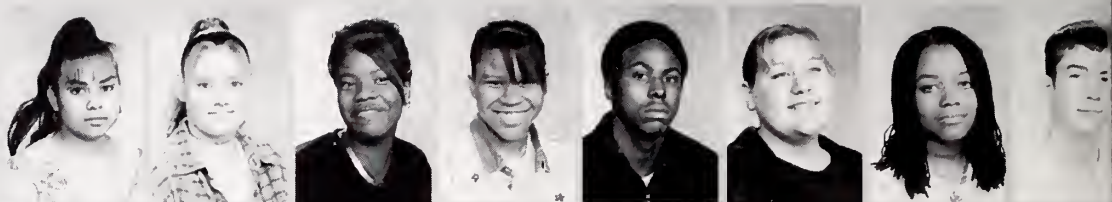

This year's sophomore class was anything but sophomoric. Sophomores are supposed to be very immature and superficial. This class has really matured since its freshman year, but the spirit didn't die. Many times freshmen enter with a ton of enthusiasm, but their sophomore year that spirit slowly lessens.

This class will forever remember the challenges of the ISTEP+. This is the class that will definitely regroup and generate a more true showing for the class of the new millenium. Go Titans!

Shortly after the start of the school year the Sophomore class was asked to take the ISTEP+ Exam. This class will be etched in stone as the class to start the exit examination.

Tech student Rachel Decker finds time to pet the Indiana Color Guard horse during a Fall visit. The Indiana National Color Guard Unit made a visit to campus to show Tech students some of their most pampered members.

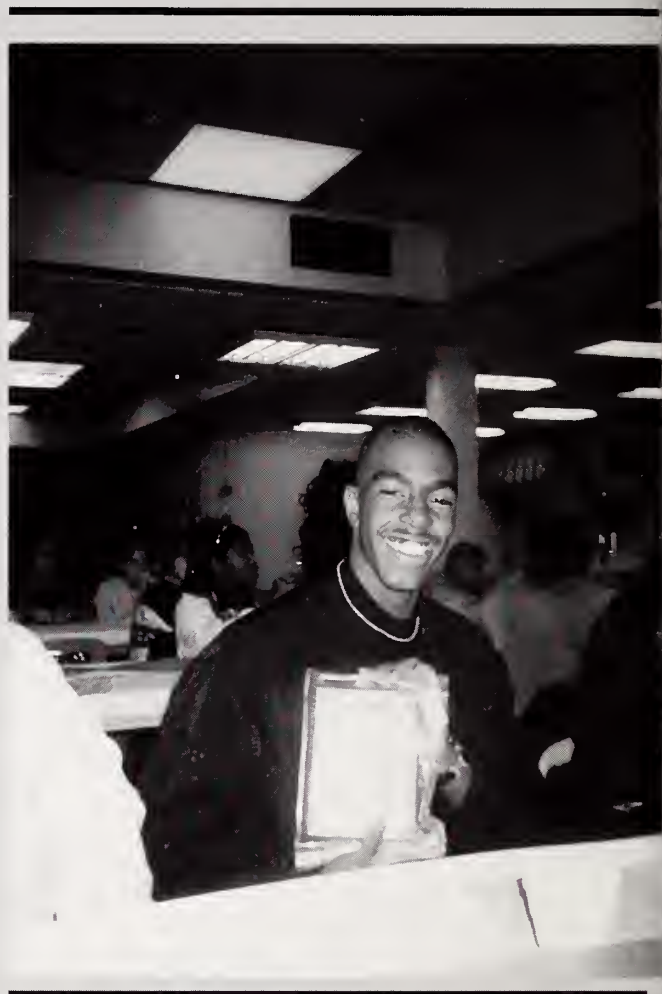

The unit spent a full afternoon outside the Arsenal, giving the students a chance to see these fine animals and to talk about their service to the state.

Corey Chandler is all smiles after picking up some shinning hardware at the Fall sports banquet. Corey received this award for his role on the Titan football team. Corey's attitude and desire to perform makes him stand out on the field of play or in the classroom. Corey really excels in both areas.

Corey has plans to attend college after graduating and major in one of the health profession careers.

How many marshmallows can you stuff in your mouth at one time? Just ask the marshmallowman. In this valiant attempt he looks to fare pretty well as the contest winner. The big question now is, how do you get them out and do you eat the marshmallows afterwards?

Freshmen Class of 2001

“All throughout grade school I had an image in mind that eighth grade was somehow the end. You went through eight years of playing kickball and dodgeball to become an eighth grader. I soon realize that high school was really the beginning.”

Your Freshman year is a time of change, adjustment and expanding horizons. The freshman class is jerked out of comfortable surroundings and thrust into a 77 acre campus. Wow!

This years class came to Tech ready, enthusiastic and eager to get going.

Well, Go Titans!

The Freshmen find there way across campus in the maylay of the dreadeed six minute passing period. Remeber if your late you well be required to serve detention in Room 4 of the Arsenal.

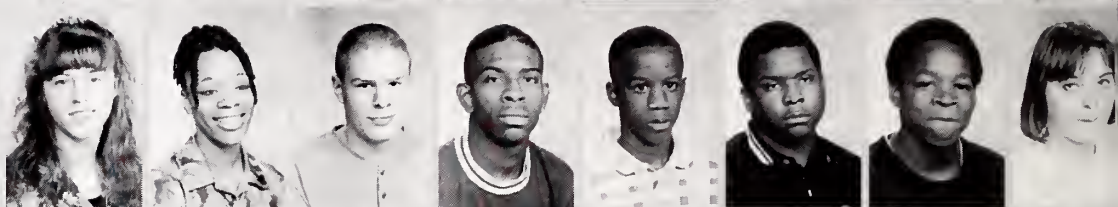

Don't be camera shy. This is high school, everybody wants to be in the yearbook!

MANURE SPREADING

Scraps the Great and Powerful

Clockwise From Top Left: Principal Gerald McLeish gets down to business on the phone. His policies have improved student life on campus.

Bryant Barbour practices his needle technique during Health Professions.

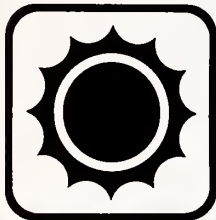

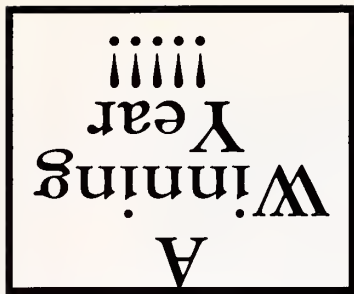

Emily Ablert dances the night away at the prom.

Principal Gerald McLeish gives his farewell to the class of 1997. His speech was a sober reflection on that school year.

Jeff Wittenbring embarks on his journey to receive his diploma.

“If I ever made a bad call,
then may I spend the rest of my life upside down!!”

See Ya Next Year !
